

DREAM WEAVING

MAINTENANCE OF ONE'S DREAM

The dreamtime planes have been resolved. This allows those who have attained 3000 or higher to manifest their dream with ease. One will require maintaining the dream daily so that one doesn't end up manifesting something other than one's intentions. Here are some suggested dream maintenance tips.

1. The dream is rewoven and sits as an egg shaped energy pattern behind the neck. Make sure that the dream is whole and complete. If someone has taken a chunk or drilled a hole sucking the dream out leaving a hollow shell in its place, retrieve all that has been lost, and return all that has been inserted. Then intend completion with the party or parties at cause balancing all scales of karma.

2. Make sure that there is not less and less chi coming from the dreamtime planes in a given week. If there is a decline in available chi, intend to release karma and complete with those that are taking your creative flow. Then retrieve all that has been lost that is beyond karmic settlement.

3. Intentions for ascension or manifestation of a particular dream, such as for a loving partner that can ascend with oneself, or for a workshop to manifest, or for clients to find oneself, are small holograms that sit outside of one's dream. Each hologram should have a thread leading to one or more who is being called to the dance of participation with one's dream. Make sure that all threads are present and to all concerned, and reel them in like a fish. If threads are missing, see who is interfering with one's spell casting and release the karma and intend completion with all parties involved, recasting the spell.

4. Clear the dream daily of all projections or attachments. Sometimes others will attach a dream that is not one's own, and one's chi will thereby go into manifesting the dream of another for another. Release all karma and intend completion with those that one has received such projections from.

5. If a portion of one's dream has become twisted to another, and another's dream intertwined with one's own, untwist the intertwining and release the agreements to exchange dreams. Often one will exchange one dream for another, and such agreements are generally karmic. Release the karma and intend completion with all parties involved and the exchange shall not occur again.

6. Check to see if the dream upon the dreamtime planes surrounding Earth is whole and intact. If portions of the dream have been siphoned off or your dream drained, retrieve what has been lost and release the karma. Also look for attachments, devices to take one's creative flow, or intertwining and release and remove. Intend to release karma and complete with all parties involved.
